INTRODUCTION

The goal of this guide is to show you the steps you have to take to RELOCATE TO CANADA without worrying about IELTS in 2020

The overview of this short report will be as follows:

- A general introduction of this unique pathway of relocating to Canada
- The step by step process involved
- How to finally make a move to becoming a permanent resident after you have successfully arrived in Canada

I have made sure this guide is in its simplest form to avoid a barrage of unnecessary information.

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM THIS GUIDE

By the time you have gone through this guide, you should expect the following:

1. Have a full understanding of this unique pathway to Canada.
2. Be able to use the information to guide you through the process of relocation from start till you arrive successfully in Canada
3. Use this guide as a reference to help you know exactly what to do in every step of the way.

Welcome to CANADA

The question is why Canada.

The simple answer to that is Canada is currently the most immigrant receptive country in the world.

Canada offers a lot of perks for its residents and has made it one of the most sort out destinations to raise a family in the world.

A few of these perks are;

- Free and quality healthcare for its residents
- Monthly child care benefits
- Free high-quality education from kindergarten to high school
- Security of lives and property (Canada is one of the safest places on earth)
- Diverse opportunity to live a very good quality of life

And the list goes on.

But most importantly, our choice for Canada will be based mostly on our individual preferences and desires.

WHY CANADA

Canada offers a lot of perks for its residents and has made it one of the most sort out destinations to raise a family in the world.

Next Steps...

HOW TO RELOCATE TO CANADA

The most popular way to relocate to Canada is through the Federal Express Entry System.

It is designed around a cutoff system where people are selected based on merit after they have successfully met a laid down requirement by the CIC- Center for Immigration Canada.

The CIC has a threshold that is released every month through a grading system called the CRS (Comprehensive Ranking System).

The CRS checks your eligibility to relocate to Canada by scoring you points based on the following;

- Education
- Work experience
- Language Proficiency (IELTS)
- Age
- Canadian experience and or Connectivity (having a close relative in Canada) Job offers, etc.

Lots of Africans who can meet up with the required points of the above list have gone ahead to relocate to Canada through the Federal Express Entry System.

The drawback however of the system is that it works mostly for people who are 35 years old and below with multiple degrees and a high IELTS score.

Another way to relocate to Canada is through the Provincial Nominee Program.

Canada is divided into ten different provinces which have their own requirements for immigration.

Generally, the requirement of this system is relaxed compared to the Federal Express Entry system in that you could get nominated even if you are 40 years and above, and you may not have multiple degrees or not even have a degree at all.

Most of the time if you possess the skills in demand in that province at that point in time, and you can demonstrate your connectivity to the province either by having a close family member or friend living in the province, you usually have a high chance of getting a nomination.

HOW TO RELOCATE TO CANADA...

The provincial nomination gives you 600 points which in turns automatically earns you an ITA – Invitation to Apply for Permanent Residence.

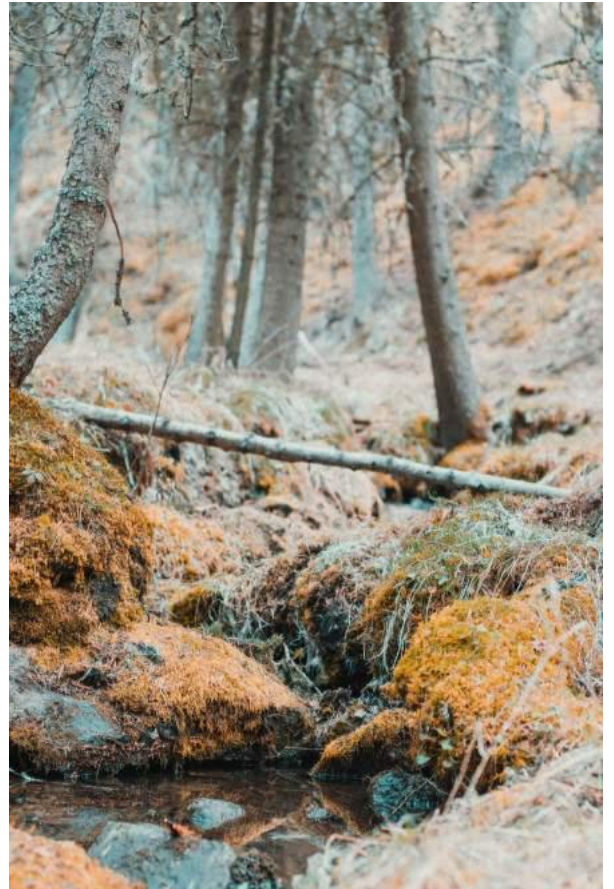

The drawback here also is that it takes an average of 8 months for the provincial nomination to come through, after which you have to wait another 4 – 6 months for the express entry to give you your Permanent Resident Visas.

That is if you have all the requirements (which changes frequently) requested by the province, some of which can only be possible if you already lived in Canada.

So what then is the way forward for those who for some reason, cannot meet up with the points requirement of both the Federal Express Entry and The Provincial Nominee Programs.

The way forward is the unique approach, not known to many in this guide.

Ironically it is the most used pathway to relocate to Canada all over the world as captured by data.

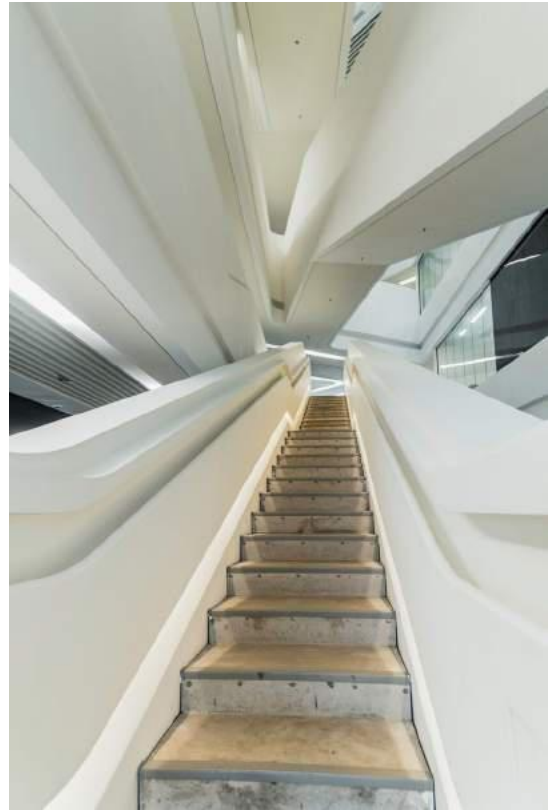

MY UNIQUE APPROACH

My unique approach of relocating to Canada is based on a simple fact.

It is easier to become a permanent resident of Canada if you already lived in Canada.

The Federal Express Entry and The Provincial Nominee Program were so designed to favor those who already live in Canada legally.

So, my unique system is simply a way to get you to Canada Legally, where you can then go ahead to get your permanent residency.

INTRODUCING THE EDUCATION/STUDY APPROACH

Grad Study > Study Permit > Work Permit > Permanent Resident

My unique approach to relocating to Canada can be summarized into 4 Basic Steps.

1. GRAD STUDY – Apply for post-graduate study at any of the institutions provided in this guide
2. STUDY PERMIT – Apply for study Permit using a unique approach
3. WORK PERMIT – Get 3 years work Permit
4. PERMANENT RESIDENCY – Get your permanent Resident status

My Unique Approach

IN SUMMARY

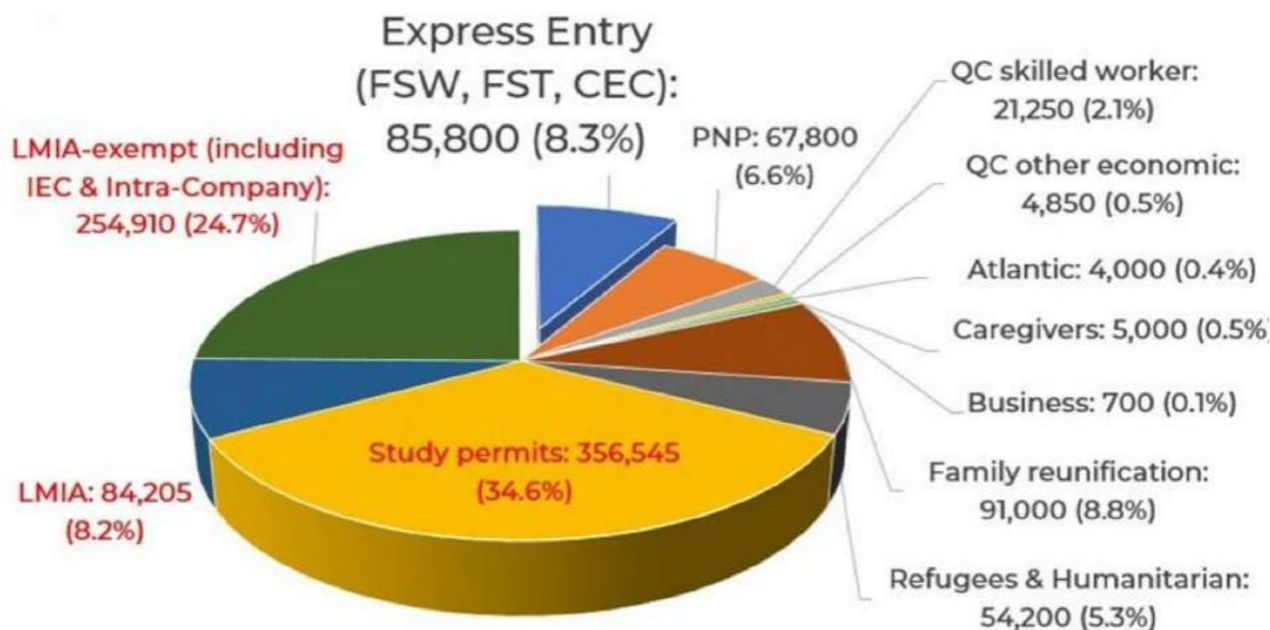

You apply to selected Canadian institutions for fully funded Grad Study.

When you have the admission, you will apply for a study permit, which automatically gives your spouse (if you have one) an open work permit.

Meanwhile, your study permit allows you 20 hours of work per week. After your studies, you have up to three years of work permit if you studied for at least 2 years.

During these three years, you can get your permanent residency.

Data shows that a large percentage of people all over the world use this route to relocate themselves and their entire family to Canada. See 2018 chart below:

Figures based on 2018 Admissions

From this data, the number of people that relocated to Canada through the study approach (represented by the yellow arch) was four times the size of those who relocated directly through the Express Entry (represented by the blue arch).

So, if you are finding it difficult meeting up with the CRS cut-off point for Express Entry, for whatsoever reasons, then the study approach is for you.

The study approach also has a few perks I should mention.

1. It is not age-dependent, unlike The Federal Express Entry Direct approach, whether you are 18 years or 50 years, you can use this study approach without any limitation.
2. Work experience is not a limiting factor in the study approach since you can work up to 20 hours a week.

During your program, your spouse will have an open work permit that allows her to work and build up the Canadian experience you both need for higher CRS points when you are ready to apply for permanent residency.

3. Your children, if you have, can also continue their studies in Canada without need for their own study permit. And lots more...

Remember, the end goal is key. BECOMING A PERMANENT RESIDENT OF CANADA.

So the program or course of study does not really matter, what matters most is that the Study Approach pathway gets you to Canada legally, which then gives you the necessary advantage when applying for Permanent Residence.

Like I mentioned before The Federal Express Entry and The Provincial Nominee Program were so designed to favor those who already live in Canada legally.

The rest of this guide will take you through a step by step process of this unique approach from start to finish.

I wish you the very best.

My Approach in SUMMARY

Remember, the end goal is key. BECOMING A PERMANENT RESIDENT OF CANADA.

GRAD STUDY

GRAD STUDY here simply refers to Post-graduate studies.

A post-graduate study can be a Doctorate (PhD), Master's degree (MA, M.Sc., etc.) or Advanced Diploma which we often refer to as Post-graduate Diploma (PGD)

MASTER'S DEGREE

This is for people who have a Second class upper (2:1) in their first degree or those with what I call very strong Second Class Lower (2:2) but only accepted in one of the institutions listed here (University of Saskatchewan) with a condition that the last two years of study must have a CGPA that falls within the 2:1 range.

The other condition is that your majors must have good grades. For example, if you are applying for a Masters in Accounting, all your accounting courses must have good grades. This concerns those with second class lower (2:2).

Needless to say, it is better for those who have second class upper and above, because they have a higher chance of being admitted.

But if you are admitted here, then funding is almost automatic.

GRAD STUDY

ADVANCED DIPLOMA

This is for people with second class lower (2:2)

Universities in Canada only accept second class upper and above, so for those with

Second class lower, their option will be Advanced Diploma at our carefully selected colleges in Ontario.

The difference here is that not all the colleges have funding. So, a certain percentage of the school fees will be paid before admission because funding is not always automatic.

POST SECONDARY DIPLOMA

This is for those with third class degrees and pass.

Most colleges in Canada only accept second class lower degrees for Advanced Diploma programs.

But for Post secondary school Diploma, the requirement is Credit pass (C6) in 5 subjects, including English.

So this option is best for those who have third class or pass.

Remember, the end goal is the key. The program of study does not matter.

What matters is Relocating to Canada legally to put yourself at an advantage when applying for your Permanent Residency.

Section 1A

APPLYING FOR GRAD STUDY

HOW TO BYPASS IELTS OR OTHER LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY EXAMS.

To be successfully admitted into a Grad Study program in Canada, you must demonstrate proficiency in English Language.

This is normally through IELTS academic or TOEFL.

But we have carefully selected a few institutions in Canada that waive this requirement.

This waiver is for those who had the instruction of their study in English language and also wrote exams in English. All English-speaking African applicants fall into this category.

So, what would be necessary is to get a letter from your school notifying the schools in Canada to this effect. This letter can be given by your department or faculty when you request for your transcript.

The letter simply states that all your instructions and examinations during your course of study were in the English Language.

Although some institutions in Canada already have the names of schools that fall into this category (African schools fall into this category), so they won't require the letter.

THESE UNIVERSITIES HAVE ADMISSIONS WITH FULL FUNDING.

During your application process, you will incur a cost of around 90 CAD (¥21,000) or in your local currency depending on the university.

Note that these Universities are for those with second class upper and above.

For those with second class lower, third class and below, we will deal with colleges you will be applying to in the next section.

If you don't belong to this group, simply jump the next section to the STUDY PERMIT section.

Go ahead now and begin your application.

NB: During your application you will be requested to write a letter of intent or a statement of purpose. A few samples have been provided that you can work with for your own letter.

2) There is a brief video that shows you how to start the application process for each of the above universities.

Section 1B

ADVANCED DIPLOMA FOR SECOND CLASS LOWER CANDIDATES AND BELOW

Universities in Canada only accept candidates with second class upper for their programs.

But notwithstanding, there are select colleges in Ontario that offers Advanced Diploma programs and accept candidates with second class lower results.

Below are the colleges that you can apply to if you have second class lower.

- Simply log on to their website.
- Select a program of choice.
- Follow the instruction for application as prompted.

There will be some correspondence between you and the institution during the application process, so ensure you have your correct email address in your application.

Advanced DIPLOMA

I have carefully selected a number of colleges that have English Proficiency waivers for African applicants.

These colleges also have some form of bursary and scholarship for international students.

But have it in mind that you should have some part of your fees available to also aid study permit application.

For those with Second Class Lower, you can apply for a Graduate Diploma.

But for those with Third Class and Pass, you will be applying for Post-Secondary school Diploma.

Remember our goal is to immigrate to Canada, so the program you apply for is just a gateway to our actual goal which is relocating to Canada and becoming a Permanent Resident.

So, whether Masters, Postgraduate Diploma, or Post-Secondary School Diploma, the key is to have that study period of about 2 years, and then apply for a 3 year work permit, during which you can begin to process your permanent residence.

HERE ARE THE COLLEGES

These schools are Designated Learning Institutions whose international students graduates are eligible for PGWP (Postgraduate Work Permit)

- ALGONQUIN
- CENTENNIAL
- CONFEDERATION
- DURHAM
- FLEMING
- GEORGE BROWN
- GEORGIAN
- HUMBER
- RIDGETOWN CAMPUS
- SHERIDAN

To apply to any of these colleges, go to

<https://www.ontariocolleges.ca/en/colleges>

There are other colleges on the website above apart from the 10 listed here, but they request a compulsory IELTS test result. So, make selections at your own discretion.

Colleges

APPLYING TO COLLEGES

The general approach to applying for a program is listed below;

- Pick a College among the 10 listed above or otherwise as you decide pick a program
- Identify when it starts and if it's still open
CHECK START DATE AND AVAILABILITY
- Review the requirements by country.
- Save electronic copies of your academic documents.
- Save electronic copies of the first page of your passport
- Prepare to pay application fee (options: VISA, Master Card, Bank Transfer)

Choosing a
COLLEGE

Now go ahead to begin your application process if applications are open. If they are not open, just wait till they are.

Make sure you browse all the colleges to see the ones that have the program you want and when admission is open for new intakes.

Application fees for most of the colleges are an average of 150CAD (N41, 250) or change to your local currency

Now go on ahead and check out the colleges. In the next section, we'll move to apply for a study permit.

NB: There is a brief video that shows you how to start the application process for each of the above colleges.

Section 2

STUDY PERMIT

STUDY PERMIT in simple terms is what the Canadian Government gives you that gives you the right to stay in Canada during the period of study.

It is given to you when you land in Canada. What you get going to Canada is a Study Visa. The duration of this permit is always relative to the duration of your program.

If peradventure you don't finish your program before your study permit expires, you can always request for an extension.

But if your program is concluded before the expiration of your study permit, the Study permit expires.

HOW TO APPLY FOR STUDY PERMIT

After you have been granted admission from any of the universities and colleges in this guide, you are given a proof of admission, which can be an admission letter or an acceptance letter, depending on the school.

This proof of admission document is a vital document in your application for a study permit.

Other requirements necessary for a successful Study Permit Application are listed in a separate PDF and detailed video. In the next section, we look at WORK PERMIT.

Section 3

WORK PERMIT

Post Graduate Work Permit (PGWP) as it is referred to is what allows international students who graduate from Canadian Universities and Colleges to work in Canada for up to 3 years.

This post graduate work permit also helps graduates transition to Permanent Residents.

In our Study Path approach, this is part of our goal.
TO GET A 3 YEAR POST GRADUATE WORK PERMIT.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POST GRADUATE WORK PERMIT

To be eligible for Post-graduate Work Permit, You must have the following;

- Have graduated from one of the schools whose graduate are eligible for post graduate work permit. All the schools listed in this guide fall into that category.
- You must have a letter from the learning Institute that you have completely met the requirements for graduation, and be given a transcript which will be part of the Post-graduate work permit application.
- Your Program of study must have been Academic, Professional or Vocational.
- You must have maintained a full time study during the program, except for leave of studies.
- Your program must have lasted a minimum of 8 months. We advise that you should go for programs that last at least 2 years, to be eligible for up to 3 years post-graduate work permit.

The website to apply for work permit is <https://www.canada.ca/en/immigration-refugees-citizenship/services/work-canada.html>. There is also a detailed video in this guide that takes you through the whole process.

This table below shows the duration of post-graduate work permit relative to duration of study.

Duration of study program	Duration of work permit
Less than 8 months	Ineligible
Between 8 and 24 months	Valid for up to the same length as the study program
24 months or longer	Up to 3 years
More than 1 program	May be valid for up to 3 years if more than 1 eligible study program is completed

Graduate Work PERMIT

Application For Post-graduate Work Permit are best submitted online.

We conclude in the Next section, where we talk about your move to becoming a permanent resident.

Becoming a PR

Becoming a Permanent Resident

CONCLUSION

At this point, becoming a permanent resident of Canada becomes easy, because you now have everything that the Federal Express Entry and the Provincial Nominee Programs require to score you high in the CRS (Comprehensive Ranking System).

These include;

- A Canadian Education
- An extra Diploma or degree A
- Canadian Work Experience
- A Canadian Connectivity (You currently live and work there, thanks to the information you got from this guide that takes you step-by-step through the process)

With these added advantages, you can simply take advantage of any of the Immigration Programs the Canadian Government has put in place to make it easier for people like you to transition easily to Permanent Resident.

I believe this guide has helped you a lot.

But remember information without action will do no one any good.

So start now, and be on your way to making your Canada Dream a reality.

Nothing is stopping you now.

Thanks once again for getting this guide.

GOOD LUCK ON YOUR
